

IAPHS is deeply grateful to the following individuals who have served as mentors in the 2021 program:

Alexander Tsai, Harvard University
Anna Zajacova, University of Western Ontario
Arnab Mukherjea, California State University East Bay
Aubrey Spriggs Madkour, Tulane University
Bruce Link, University of California, Riverside
Carlos Mendes de Leon, University of Michigan
Carrie Henning-Smith, University of Minnesota
Caryn Bell, Tulane University
Christopher Wildeman, Duke University
Courtney Cogburn, Columbia University
Deborah Carr, Boston University
Devon Greyson, University of Massachusetts
Georgiana Bostean, Chapman University
Gilbert Ramirez, Texas A&M University
Guadalupe Marquez-Velarde, Utah State University
Heather Larkin, SUNY at Albany
Jarron Saint Onge, The University of Kansas
Jason Houle, Dartmouth University
Jessica Fish, University of Maryland
Jhumka Gupta, George Mason University
John Prochaska, University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston
John Warren, University of Minnesota
Johnelle Sparks, University of Texas at San Antonio
Kaori Fujishiro, The Centers for Disease Control
Kristin Turney, University of California, Irvine
LaShawnDa Pittman, The University of Washington
Lauren Gaydosh, University of Texas at Austin
Lindsey Smith, Portland State University
Lolita Jones, Population Health Analytics Association Incorporated
Magdalena Szaflarski, University of Alabama at Birmingham
Mark Hayward, University of Texas at Austin
Mark Orr, University of Virginia
Mark Pachucki, University of Massachusetts
Matt Hauer, Florida State University
Matthew Farina, University of Southern California
Megan Todd, City of Philadelphia Department of Public Health
Michael Nino, University of Arkansas
Nrupen Bhavsar, Duke University
Patricia Mabry, Health Partners
Paul Nelson, Family Health Care, P.C.
Rita Hamad, University of California, San Francisco
Rogelio Saenz, University of Texas at San Antonio
Rourke O'Brien, Yale University
Sarah Stoddard, University of Michigan
Stephen Russell, University of Texas
Sue Bevan, Interdisciplinary Association for Population Health Science
Susan E. Short, Brown University
Tod Hamilton, Princeton University
Virginia Chang, NYU
Yan Li, Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai