

IAPHS is deeply grateful to the following individuals who serve as mentors in the 2022 program:

Adam Lippert, University of Colorado at Denver
Alexander Tsai, Harvard University
Andy Subica, University of California, Riverside
Ann Moore, Guttmacher Institute
Aubrey Spriggs Madkour, Tulane University School of Public Health & Tropical Medicine
Caryn Bell, Tulane University School of Public Health & Tropical Medicine
Cheryl Anderson, University of California San Diego
Chioun Lee, University of California, Riverside
Christian Vazquez, University of Texas, Austin
Courtnee Melton-Fant, University of Memphis
Courtney D. Cogburn, Columbia University
Darrell Hudson, Washington University in Saint Louis
David Berrigan, National Institutes of Health
Deborah Parra-Medina, University of Texas, Austin
Devon Greyson, University of British Columbia
Dominick L Frosch, Health Science Diligence Advisors, LLC
Elizabeth Wildsmith, Child Trends
Ellesse Akre, Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth
Erin Hagan, RWJF Evidence for Action, UCSF
Eyal Oren, San Diego State University
Fred Zimmerman, University of California Los Angeles
Hedy Lee, Washington University in Saint Louis
Jacob Bor, Boston University
Jacqueline Angel, University of Texas, Austin
Jarron Saint Onge, University of Kansas
Jason Houle, Dartmouth College
John Prochaska, University of Texas Medical Branch
John W. R. Phillips, National Institutes of Health
Kaori Fujishiro, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
Karina Shreffler, University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center
LaShawnDa Pittman, University of Washington
Lauren Gaydosh, University of Texas at Austin
LeConte Dill, Michigan State University
Lindsay Hoyt, Fordham University
Maeve Wallace, Tulane University School of Public Health & Tropical Medicine
Magdalena Szaflarski, The University of Alabama at Birmingham
Marc Adams, Arizona State University
Mark Hayward, University of Texas at Austin
Megan Todd, City of Philadelphia Department of Public Health
Michael Bader, Johns Hopkins University
Michael Nino, University of Arkansas
Nancy Jones, National Institutes of Health
Natalie Slopen, Harvard University

Nrupen Bhavsar, Duke University
Patricia Homan, Florida State University
Rebecca Fix, Johns Hopkins University
Rebecca Stebbins, King's College London
Rob Warren, University of Minnesota
Roshani Shah, Pfizer
Ryan Suk, The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston
Sabriya Linton, Johns Hopkins University
Sarah Stoddard , University of Michigan
Sarah MacCarthy, University of Alabama, Birmingham
Sean Valles, Michigan State University
Silvia S. Martins, Columbia University
Sophie Nathenson, Widespread Wellness
Stephanie Robert, University of Wisconsin Madison
Susan E. Short, Brown University
Thomas McDade, Northwestern University
Tse-Chuan (TC) Yang, University at Albany
Virginia Chang, New York University